

The Jungle Times

Volume I, Issue VI

Auburn Tigers vs Arkansas Razorbacks – February 10, 2015

(24) Arkansas (18-5, 7-3 SEC) has won five of their last six games, including, most recently, two 20-point wins. Arkansas brings a talented team into Auburn Arena tonight.

Auburn (11-11, 3-6 SEC) couldn't quite comeback against Ole Miss on Saturday after leading by one at the half, but hopes to rebound and get a very high quality home win against 24th ranked Arkansas with the help of The Jungle.

Series History

Auburn won the first matchup in 1967, 65-58.

Arkansas leads the all-time series 31-16, but only 10-12 at Auburn.

Arkansas is currently on a 7 game winning streak against Auburn.

Arkansas won the last meeting 86-67 on January 25, 2014.

BASKETBALL 101: PICKS AND SCREENS

Screens, sometimes referred to as picks, are one of the key ways that offenses can free up space and make room for a teammate with the ball to get around a defender. To set a screen, the offensive player without the ball must keep their arms close to their body and plant their feet next to an opposing player, acting as an obstacle that the defender then must go around. If a player is moving when they set a screen, or their body is leaning forward or backwards, they may be called for an offensive foul. Screens can open up room for the other offensive player with the ball to drive to the basket or to pass the defender and then pass the ball freely to another offensive player.

Fun Facts

Remember as you heckle, try to be creative and disruptive, but please refrain from foul language.*

#24 Michael Qualls – is a 21 year old father, and claims to be allergic to layoffs.

#10 Bobby Portis – two of his brothers are named Jarod and Jared, and lists his Twitter location as “The Jungle,” so let’s give him a nice welcome.

#00 Rashad Madden – also a father, and only gets on Twitter to retweet people telling him happy birthday.

#5 Anthlon Bell – win or lose, blow up his Snapchat before, during, and after the game: anthlon5.

#2 Alandise Harris – wants to be called Alandise “Burnnation” Harris from now on because of his obsession with Huskies.

The Jungle Times

Volume I, Issue VI

Auburn Tigers vs Arkansas Razorbacks – February 10, 2015

(24) Arkansas (18-5, 7-3 SEC) has won five of their last six games, including, most recently, two 20-point wins. Arkansas brings a talented team into Auburn Arena tonight.

Auburn (11-11, 3-6 SEC) couldn't quite comeback against Ole Miss on Saturday after leading by one at the half, but hopes to rebound and get a very high quality home win against 24th ranked Arkansas with the help of The Jungle.

Series History

Auburn won the first matchup in 1967, 65-58.

Arkansas leads the all-time series 31-16, but only 10-12 at Auburn.

Arkansas is currently on a 7 game winning streak against Auburn.

Arkansas won the last meeting 86-67 on January 25, 2014.

BASKETBALL 101: PICKS AND SCREENS

Screens, sometimes referred to as picks, are one of the key ways that offenses can free up space and make room for a teammate with the ball to get around a defender. To set a screen, the offensive player without the ball must keep their arms close to their body and plant their feet next to an opposing player, acting as an obstacle that the defender then must go around. If a player is moving when they set a screen, or their body is leaning forward or backwards, they may be called for an offensive foul. Screens can open up room for the other offensive player with the ball to drive to the basket or to pass the defender and then pass the ball freely to another offensive player.

Fun Facts

Remember as you heckle, try to be creative and disruptive, but please refrain from foul language.*

#24 Michael Qualls – is a 21 year old father, and claims to be allergic to layoffs.

#10 Bobby Portis – two of his brothers are named Jarod and Jared, and lists his Twitter location as “The Jungle,” so let’s give him a nice welcome.

#00 Rashad Madden – also a father, and only gets on Twitter to retweet people telling him happy birthday.

#5 Anthlon Bell – win or lose, blow up his Snapchat before, during, and after the game: anthlon5.

#2 Alandise Harris – wants to be called Alandise “Burnnation” Harris from now on because of his obsession with Huskies.

GENERAL CHEERS

Offense – Basically, follow the lead of the cheerleaders, pep band, and the student Jungle leaders. When the shot clock gets to 10, start counting down to help the team out.

Defense – Start with cheers like “Defense, defense!” or “D-up, D-up!” then when in doubt just make lots of noise. When the shot clock gets to 10, start counting down from 5 to mess up the other team.

SITUATIONAL CHEERS

Jungle Banner – After our team is introduced, and after the hype video, when the lights come back on, the Jungle Banner will go up and you should chant, “Fear the Jungle!” over and over. This should try to keep going until tip off.

Opposing player shoots an air ball – Shout “Airrr ball! Airrr ball!” at the player while pointing at him in a chopping motion. Continue to harass him like this every time they touch the ball.

Opposing player commits a foul – Shout “You can’t do that!” over and over again. Stop if our player is at the line for free throws.

Auburn is shooting free throws – Raise your arms before the shot, and on a made basket clap your hands twice and yell “A-U!” while making the shapes of the letters with your arms.

Opposing player fouls out – As the player walks to the bench, shout “Step! Step!” for every step. When he sits down, shout “Sit down!” DON’T shout if we’re shooting free throws so we don’t distract our own players.

REMINDERS

The Jungle is all about doing anything we can to be a better student section, so if you have ideas or questions find a student leader or get in contact with the @AUJungle on Twitter.

Follow @AUJungle on Twitter for all official student section news and events and go to auburntigers.com/jungle to order your Jungle T-Shirt to wear to the games (while supplies last).

The goal of the Auburn Jungle is to be loud and obnoxious for opposing teams at all times, but to remain appropriate and respectable before, during, and after the game.

GENERAL CHEERS

Offense – Basically, follow the lead of the cheerleaders, pep band, and the student Jungle leaders. When the shot clock gets to 10, start counting down to help the team out.

Defense – Start with cheers like “Defense, defense!” or “D-up, D-up!” then when in doubt just make lots of noise. When the shot clock gets to 10, start counting down from 5 to mess up the other team.

SITUATIONAL CHEERS

Jungle Banner – After our team is introduced, and after the hype video, when the lights come back on, the Jungle Banner will go up and you should chant, “Fear the Jungle!” over and over. This should try to keep going until tip off.

Opposing player shoots an air ball – Shout “Airrr ball! Airrr ball!” at the player while pointing at him in a chopping motion. Continue to harass him like this every time they touch the ball.

Opposing player commits a foul – Shout “You can’t do that!” over and over again. Stop if our player is at the line for free throws.

Auburn is shooting free throws – Raise your arms before the shot, and on a made basket clap your hands twice and yell “A-U!” while making the shapes of the letters with your arms.

Opposing player fouls out – As the player walks to the bench, shout “Step! Step!” for every step. When he sits down, shout “Sit down!” DON’T shout if we’re shooting free throws so we don’t distract our own players.

REMINDERS

The Jungle is all about doing anything we can to be a better student section, so if you have ideas or questions find a student leader or get in contact with the @AUJungle on Twitter.

Follow @AUJungle on Twitter for all official student section news and events and go to auburntigers.com/jungle to order your Jungle T-Shirt to wear to the games (while supplies last).

The goal of the Auburn Jungle is to be loud and obnoxious for opposing teams at all times, but to remain appropriate and respectable before, during, and after the game.

NEXT 5 GAMES

Sat. 2/14, 1pm - @Georgia

Tues. 2/17, 8pm – Alabama

Sat. 2/21, 6pm - @Kentucky

Tues. 2/24, 6pm – LSU

*Sat. 2/28, 7:30pm - @Texas
A&M*

NEXT 5 GAMES

Sat. 2/14, 1pm - @Georgia

Tues. 2/17, 8pm – Alabama

Sat. 2/21, 6pm - @Kentucky

Tues. 2/24, 6pm – LSU

*Sat. 2/28, 7:30pm - @Texas
A&M*