

The Jungle Times

Volume I, Issue VIII
Auburn Tigers vs LSU Tigers – February 24, 2015

LSU (19-8, 8-6 SEC) is coming off of a home win against Florida, but has to come into Auburn Arena after already losing to Auburn in Baton Rouge on February 5th.

Auburn (12-15, 4-10 SEC) is coming off a rough loss to Alabama a week ago and then most recently fell to the undefeated Kentucky Wildcats on Saturday night on the road. Auburn needs to rebound here and finish the season strong.

Series History

Auburn won the first ever matchup in 1912, 38-15.
LSU leads the all-time series 84-64, but only 33-35 at Auburn.
Auburn is currently on a 1 game winning streak against LSU.
Auburn won the last meeting 81-77 on February 5, 2015.

BASKETBALL 101: BACKCOURT AND SHOT CLOCK VIOLATIONS

From the time the ball is inbounded, a team has 35 seconds for the ball to touch the rim. They also must get the ball across half court before 10 seconds have run off the clock. If the ball does not touch the rim before 35 seconds have passed, the other team is awarded the ball. When the ball does hit the rim, the shot clock is reset to a new 35 seconds. Once a player crosses half court, they or the ball must not cross back over or a backcourt violation will be called and the ball is awarded to the other team.

Fun Facts

Remember as you heckle, try to be creative and disruptive, but please refrain from foul language.*

#25 Jordan Mickey – says he chose LSU because of the atmosphere. Make sure to ask him how the atmosphere was when Auburn went in and won earlier this year.

#4 Keith Hornsby – his father Bruce is a Grammy-Award winning musician and is dating LSU Tiger Girl, Heidey Hanks.

#1 Jarell Martin – enjoys working out, eating pizza, and watching movies. His favorite basketball player is LeBron James, but his favorite team is the Heat. Has had 3 separate Twitter accounts since 2013.

#55 Tim Quarterman – nickname is “Puncho.” Claims to be “just a cool youngin from the Eastside of town” and only has 180 followers on Twitter.

#5 Josh Gray – arrested for possession of an AK-47 and then shoplifting in 2013 while at Texas Tech, which explains why one of his favorite music artists is Lil Boosie.

The Jungle Times

Volume I, Issue VIII
Auburn Tigers vs LSU Tigers – February 24, 2015

LSU (19-8, 8-6 SEC) is coming off of a home win against Florida, but has to come into Auburn Arena after already losing to Auburn in Baton Rouge on February 5th.

Auburn (12-15, 4-10 SEC) is coming off a rough loss to Alabama a week ago and then most recently fell to the undefeated Kentucky Wildcats on Saturday night on the road. Auburn needs to rebound here and finish the season strong.

Series History

Auburn won the first ever matchup in 1912, 38-15.
LSU leads the all-time series 84-64, but only 33-35 at Auburn.
Auburn is currently on a 1 game winning streak against LSU.
Auburn won the last meeting 81-77 on February 5, 2015.

BASKETBALL 101: BACKCOURT AND SHOT CLOCK VIOLATIONS

From the time the ball is inbounded, a team has 35 seconds for the ball to touch the rim. They also must get the ball across half court before 10 seconds have run off the clock. If the ball does not touch the rim before 35 seconds have passed, the other team is awarded the ball. When the ball does hit the rim, the shot clock is reset to a new 35 seconds. Once a player crosses half court, they or the ball must not cross back over or a backcourt violation will be called and the ball is awarded to the other team.

Fun Facts

Remember as you heckle, try to be creative and disruptive, but please refrain from foul language.*

#25 Jordan Mickey – says he chose LSU because of the atmosphere. Make sure to ask him how the atmosphere was when Auburn went in and won earlier this year.

#4 Keith Hornsby – his father Bruce is a Grammy-Award winning musician and is dating LSU Tiger Girl, Heidey Hanks.

#1 Jarell Martin – enjoys working out, eating pizza, and watching movies. His favorite basketball player is LeBron James, but his favorite team is the Heat. Has had 3 separate Twitter accounts since 2013.

#55 Tim Quarterman – nickname is “Puncho.” Claims to be “just a cool youngin from the Eastside of town” and only has 180 followers on Twitter.

#5 Josh Gray – arrested for possession of an AK-47 and then shoplifting in 2013 while at Texas Tech, which explains why one of his favorite music artists is Lil Boosie.

GENERAL CHEERS

Offense – Basically, follow the lead of the cheerleaders, pep band, and the student Jungle leaders. When the shot clock gets to 10, start counting down to help the team out.

Defense – Start with cheers like “Defense, defense!” or “D-up, D-up!” then when in doubt just make lots of noise. When the shot clock gets to 10, start counting down from 5 to mess up the other team.

SITUATIONAL CHEERS

Jungle Banner – After our team is introduced, and after the hype video, when the lights come back on, the Jungle Banner will go up and you should chant, “Fear the Jungle!” over and over. This should try to keep going until tip off.

Opposing player shoots an air ball – Shout “Airrr ball! Airrr ball!” at the player while pointing at him in a chopping motion. Continue to harass him like this every time they touch the ball.

Opposing player commits a foul – Shout “You can’t do that!” over and over again. Stop if our player is at the line for free throws.

Auburn is shooting free throws – Raise your arms before the shot, and on a made basket clap your hands twice and yell “A-U!” while making the shapes of the letters with your arms.

Opposing player fouls out – As the player walks to the bench, shout “Step! Step!” for every step. When he sits down, shout “Sit down!” DON’T shout if we’re shooting free throws so we don’t distract our own players.

REMINDERS

The Jungle is all about doing anything we can to be a better student section, so if you have ideas or questions find a student leader or get in contact with the @AUJungle on Twitter.

Follow @AUJungle on Twitter for all official student section news and events and go to auburntigers.com/jungle to order your Jungle T-Shirt to wear to the games (while supplies last).

The goal of the Auburn Jungle is to be loud and obnoxious for opposing teams at all times, but to remain appropriate and respectable before, during, and after the game.

REMAINING GAMES

Sat. 2/28, 7:30pm - @Texas
A&M

Tues. 3/3, 8pm - @Missouri

Sat. 3/7, 3pm – Georgia

Wed. 3/11, TBA – SEC Tourney

GENERAL CHEERS

Offense – Basically, follow the lead of the cheerleaders, pep band, and the student Jungle leaders. When the shot clock gets to 10, start counting down to help the team out.

Defense – Start with cheers like “Defense, defense!” or “D-up, D-up!” then when in doubt just make lots of noise. When the shot clock gets to 10, start counting down from 5 to mess up the other team.

SITUATIONAL CHEERS

Jungle Banner – After our team is introduced, and after the hype video, when the lights come back on, the Jungle Banner will go up and you should chant, “Fear the Jungle!” over and over. This should try to keep going until tip off.

Opposing player shoots an air ball – Shout “Airrr ball! Airrr ball!” at the player while pointing at him in a chopping motion. Continue to harass him like this every time they touch the ball.

Opposing player commits a foul – Shout “You can’t do that!” over and over again. Stop if our player is at the line for free throws.

Auburn is shooting free throws – Raise your arms before the shot, and on a made basket clap your hands twice and yell “A-U!” while making the shapes of the letters with your arms.

Opposing player fouls out – As the player walks to the bench, shout “Step! Step!” for every step. When he sits down, shout “Sit down!” DON’T shout if we’re shooting free throws so we don’t distract our own players.

REMINDERS

The Jungle is all about doing anything we can to be a better student section, so if you have ideas or questions find a student leader or get in contact with the @AUJungle on Twitter.

Follow @AUJungle on Twitter for all official student section news and events and go to auburntigers.com/jungle to order your Jungle T-Shirt to wear to the games (while supplies last).

The goal of the Auburn Jungle is to be loud and obnoxious for opposing teams at all times, but to remain appropriate and respectable before, during, and after the game.

REMAINING GAMES

Sat. 2/28, 7:30pm - @Texas
A&M

Tues. 3/3, 8pm - @Missouri

Sat. 3/7, 3pm – Georgia

Wed. 3/11, TBA – SEC Tourney